"Invited to the Table"

Luke 5:27-32

November 10, 2019 - Mark Sorensen

Gather

- Can you believe, this is the last Harvest Home Group of the year? How are you feeling about that? Perhaps a good opening this week is to discuss a plan to check in with one another before we kick back off with a new semester on January 26th, 2020.
- Can you identify a moment during your home group this semester that has been a particularly meaningful moment for you? Maybe it was a talk, a discussion, or a revelation. Share as a group.

Plant

- Have someone read Luke 5:27-32 to the group. If possible, hear it from two or three different translations.
- What's surprising to you in this story?
- Where do you find yourself in this story? (Levi, Jesus, Pharisees and Teachers of the Law, one of the disciples, One of Levi's friends)

Grow

- For Levi, being seen by Jesus changed him. However, it didn't stop with being seen. There was also an invitation to, "Follow". This encounter changed him forever. Here's a good point to stop and share the following. What's your story? Share the moment in your life story where Christ said, "Follow me".

Harvest

- How can you throw a party and invite others to meet Jesus? What would this look like? What are tangible ways you can share Christ with others in the days/weeks/months ahead?

Prayers

- As a group, close in prayer. Perhaps a good ending would be to pray for the person on your right and give thanks for their being a part of the group.

We appreciate all of you and can't wait to kick off our next semester beginning January 26, 2020! Take a group selfie and send those pics to shall@twumc.org
